Letter from the President:

From Da Prez ,

Hello fellow archers! I hope everyone is well. Anyone that missed Chester , missed another good shoot, as always. Congrats to Bill & Nan for 25 years! We have had many inquiries about the "Off The Shelf" rule. This is a re-clarification of the rule was put in place two years ago. We enjoy a very simple form of archery without range police. Our tournaments this season have set new records for attendance, so it seems that many agree. We do not want to mirror or imitate the other archery clubs. We are Traditional Bowhunters of Texas , Keep it simple keep it fun! Looking forward to seeing everyone at Texas State Longbow Championship.

Wm. (Bud) Murphy Jr.

GAME TAMERS®
...stands for hunters:

A Note from your Secretary:

The Hill Country Shoot turned out to be as good as ever, even with the high gas prices. Thanks to everyone... the officers, especially Pat Handley, our Range Captain, the volunteers, vendors, donors and the members and participants. Thanks are certainly in order to the Bug Scuffle Ranch for hosting this event and especially to Bryan Keeling for his efforts. Bryan is not an officer but contributes an enormous amount to this shoot. From mowing and clearing trails, transporting the targets from storage, range set up, tear down, cleanup, hauling trash, teardown, and returning the targets to storage. Thank you Bryan!

Your contributions to our youth program are at work. Bryant and I attended the Glen Parker Memorial Stick-bow Roundup in Chester and took our TBoT youth bows and arrows. We were able to put 3 bows in the hands of 11 year olds (two being my own cousins working on their Boy Scout Merit Badge in Archery). They all three shot Saturday and came back on Sunday. They had a blast, thanks to those of you that donated to this effort.

Our membership dues will be increasing effective January 1, 2012. See page 19 for details. Renew early!!!

Brenda

EDITORS NOTE:

I need help! Please send me pics of your traditional successes; both in the field and on the range. Everyone wants to see your pictures and read about your adventures in the traditional world. E-mail any pictures and stories to jbischoffberger@yahoo.com.

TBoT Equipment Guidelines

“Traditional Archery” as defined by this organization, incorporates forms, styles, and preferences from the primitive archers’ use of natural materials to those utilizing the latest of manmade products however, the resulting encounterment must meet the following criteria:

1. No moving parts. When assembled, the working bow is to be one solid piece. Must be shot off the shelf.
2. No Sights. This includes markings on the bow or string.
3. Arrows are to be no less than 6 inches shorter than the draw length of the archer using the bow. (e.g., to allow Turkish, siper-type over draws but disallow vertical crossbows)
4. Release shall be accomplished with the digits of the drawing hand.

In the event a participant is unable to meet the guidelines as specified but it is felt the style meets the intent and purpose of this organization, they can submit appeal for acceptance to the Executive Council (EC). The EC shall then decide the issue.

Primitive Bunny

By: Alex Gutierrez

Wood, string and bone. That is what my gear consisted of that day. An Osage self bow, cedar arrow and an arrowhead made from the scale of an alligator gar. The bow was a recent purchase from an old bow fishing buddy of mine, 46lbs at 28 inches with recurved tips and a snakeskin backing, she is a joy to shoot. I had just finished reading an article in Traditional Bowhunter about bone broad heads and a thought came to me, never a good thing according to those who know me. If he can make a broadhead out of bone, why can't I use the scale of an alligator gar as an arrow tip. I had read somewhere, long ago, about natives using the same on their arrows, the scales from a larger gar are the proper size and close to the proper shape. It can be done I thought to myself and proceeded to collect some of the better scales from a collection of gar hides we always dump at the ranch. I began by using a dremmel tool to cut out slots to tie them onto the arrow and then a belt sander to give them an edge. The scales are made up of a material similar to enamel and are the second hardest organic material known to man, second only to the enamel of teeth. They sharpened up nice and sharp, and by leaving a burr on the edge, I could cause maximum damage with the less than razor sharp heads. I only had one cedar shaft left after building some arrows for a buddy of mine and it was spined way too high for my little self bow, but I decided to leave it full length and have a go with it, its only a test right? After hafting the scale to the shaft and tying on some feathers I had collected from an old raven that had gotten to close to the horse feed, I almost ran outside to test out how true the arrow flew.

I set up my block target at 10yrds and readied for the shot. I picked a spot, drew, came to anchor and...let down. Something just didn't feel right. I cut the distance in half and tried again. At the release, I was sure happy I had listened to my inner self. The arrows were so stiff, that I almost missed the target. Whew that was close. I canted the bow almost horizontal for the next shot and actually hit the 4 inch bull's-eye. After a few shots, I was reasonably confident in my ability and proceeded to step back a couple more yards. I was doing good out to 15 before I decided to call it an evening. As I was collecting my gear and stowing in my pickup, I noticed a cottontail move in the pasture about 50yrds away. Should I? Yeah why not, it's a test right? We have to test everything when we get a chance, and what better way to test the lethality of the arrow tip than on a live animal, albeit a small one, but game nonetheless. Now how to get within 10yrds of an animal that has already spotted me and is trying to figure me out. Keep doing what I was doing I thought, pretend to ignore it and casually got closer to him. At 15yrds he finally noticed me getting closer and figuring something was up, took a few of tentative hops deeper into the brush. Now is my chance, he is relying on his natural camouflage and will think that I can not see him until it is too late. I snuck up to about 12ft and finally picked him out from under the prickly pear he chose as cover and started maneuvering for a shot. Found a decently clear lane and I started going through my preshot ritual, Pick a spot, steady draw, solid 3 point anchor and back tension...oh yea, the severe cant, I almost forgot. OK, everything feels right, wait a minute why is my arrow already flying towards the rabbit, I don't remember the release. But it flew true and penetrated to the feathers through both shoulder blades and it was over just as quick. My little plan came to completion.

I don't know if anyone else has used a gar scale as a broadhead since the days of the Seminoles, but I do know that it was fun to go back in time, if only for a short while. Maybe, if I can get a stronger self bow, I will try the gar scales on something larger, maybe not. It was only a test after all, or was it the beginning of something else....only time will tell.

Thanks

To everyone who had a part, large or small, in the presentation of the Bob Lee Signature Bow at Stick Bow. I thank you for this much appreciated gift. I will look forward to my first hunt with this bow. For years I have always wanted to own one, due to the respect I have for Mr. Lee and his family. The bow is a beautiful work of art. Now, if I can just slow down long enough to shoot it. It is not often you can sit with one of the legends of your chosen sport and be able to ask about and listen to the stories of the early days of archery in the United States and its development.

Glen Bryant told me afterwards that this was started after Stick Bow last year, so I am proud that I have been so honored by my peers. Nan will enjoy the gift card that you gave her. I know it will be put to great use by her.

Bill and Nan Decker.

TBoT member, Glenn Bryant, presenting Bill and Nan Decker with gifts of appreciation for all the work they do organizing the Glen Parker Memorial Shoot in Chester. Bill was presented with a Bob Lee bow and Nan received a nice gift certificate. Thanks again, for all you do, Bill and Nan!

Stick Bow 2011

By: Bill Decker

25 years and still moving on! It is amazing how time flies when you are having fun! Everyone who works at putting on a shoot will understand when I say it is a labor of love. I could not put on this shoot without a lot of dedicated help; Carl, Virginia, and Mona on registration, Carrie and Nicole with the raffle, David, Bill R., Buster, PR, Tommy and many others that volunteer their time and efforts. With God's blessing, another 25 years, then I can be like Joe, come and sit, watch and enjoy watching others, and shoot if I want to! This year we were blessed with 421 participants, who shot a great course with beautiful weather. It was a great time to renew friendships, catch up on the latest news, but more importantly, meeting and making new friends. It is amazing to watch kids grow up over the years (making secret raids on the concession stand, who would do that?) and some even are now married with kids of their own. Some of you are getting old!

Friday night started with the largest group ever to stay on the grounds, with the cabins running at 60% full. Saturday morning started off cool and clear with a great turn out. Many shooters participated in the various novelty events and the aerial competition that afternoon. Saturday night you had a choice of shooting the night shoot or sitting under the trees picking and grinning. There is some great singing, picking and grinning talent that meet and get together now for several years. Sunday started off clear and cold, with temperature in the low 50's; after a beautiful day of shooting, the shoot came to a close with the awards and raffle. Over $11,000 was raised that will be distributed to the camp and cancer research. Thank you to all who came, see you next year, and remember we are the week after Mother's Day.

The buffalo at Chester was "out there", even for the younger archers!

The novelty shoots at Chester were a test of skill and a load of fun too!

Max Meuir makes a good shot on the "flying carp" at Chester.

Mr. Joe, taking it all in, at the Chester shoot.

The 2011 Aransas National Wildlife Refuge archery hunt dates are Oct 1-9. The IBEP Class at the Refuge is Sept 17-18, and regular scouting Sept 24-25-30. To get your $60 over the counter hunt permit call the Refuge at 361-286-3559, For information on the IBEP Class call Danny at 361-222-1152. Aransas National Wildlife Refuge is reporting dry conditions at this time.

LEGISLATIVE NOTES

Following are the only changes to the 2011-12 hunting season that I have been able to locate. In a nutshell, the changes (both re: turkey hunting) are to temporarily close Eastern turkey hunting in 15 East Texas Counties and to include bearded Rio Grande hens in 4 bag limit counties. If anyone is aware of others, please drop me a line and I will do my best to do some more digging. Also a big thank you to Dena Kana (President LSBA), who has been showing me the ropes with regard to finding information on pending legislation.

Dusty Hundt...TBoT Legislative Representative...mhundt@swbell.net

Effective for the 2012 season, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is closing spring turkey hunting in the following 15 East Texas counties in response to low populations and harvest numbers: Cherokee, Delta, Gregg, Hardin, Houston, Hunt, Liberty, Montgomery, Rains, Rusk, San Jacinto, Shelby, Smith, Tyler and Walker. In all, Texas has 43 counties that offer Eastern spring hunting. This still leaves 28 counties that will continue the spring hunting season at least for one more year.

Closing spring turkey seasons in these counties will enable biologists to reassess Eastern turkey restoration efforts in areas affected.

Also effective for the 2012 season, TPWD is delaying spring Eastern turkey hunting in the remaining counties having an open season by two weeks, to run from April 15-May 14 beginning in 2012. Biologists say the delay gives hens time to begin nesting prior to the season opening. Just a little more help for the counties that need a boost.

Beginning in 2012, hunters may harvest any bearded Rio Grande turkey during the spring season in all counties having a bag limit of four turkeys. TPWD has determined the Rio Grande turkey population in Texas is large and stable, and since bearded hens constitute less than 5 percent of the total hen population, allowing harvest of bearded hens during the spring season would not have a negative impact on the population.

TPWD is also proposing to clarify that Managed Lands Deer permits for mule deer are valid during the archery-only season for the take of mule deer by means of archery equipment. This recommended change would clear up any confusion as to when MLDPs can be used for mule deer. 4/22/11
