A message from your Vice President

The summer heat is on us and it will stay that way for several months to come. I don't know about the rest of you but I don't seem to shoot as much this time of year and that's why I look forward to the TBoT events that take place around the state. With that said take a look at the schedule posted on the website and you will see that we still have several shoots remaining for this year, so grab some water, sunblock, bug spray and a friend and we will see you there.

Sense were talking TBoT events, we get asked by members and non members about hosting shoots in your area, if you have a desire and a local club the next step is to reach out to your regional rep or an officer and we will assist you in the process.

Remember TBoT is your organization and the more you get involved the better we will be.

I also would like to remind you all about an opportunity to support TBoT. Each year following the Hill Country Shootout there is a need to replace some targets, this can be a big expense. You now can be a sponsor of a new target and a sign will be placed at that target showing the sponsors name. To date we have two targets spoken for, Salado Longbows and Ten Again Arrows have agreed to sponsor targets. Give me a call and I can discuss details with those interested in doing the same.

Until next time Shoot em straight and keep your feathers dry.

Bryant and Brenda Stein

A message from your Hill Country Shootout Committee

Brenda and I volunteer to chair a committee for the Hill Country Shootout for several reasons. One to ensure that Bryan Keeling had all the help he needed to prepare for this event and to help Connie Balusek in her first year as Secretary. Well we found out, Bryan pretty much had everything ready for us and Connie single handedly did all the administrative work. Kudos to you both!

Our first year at Growing Rocks Ranch was a Success! A huge thank you to Bill and Ann Butler for hosting the shoot. Thanks to everyone who helped, those who showed up early to set up and those who stayed afterwards to help tear down. Our new storage trailer really paid off.

We've received many compliments as well as suggestions for next year. We appreciate all your comments, both positive and ideas for things we can improve upon.

Thank you to all the vendors that support this event. We appreciate your comments and hope to make next year's event even better for you.

And let's not forget our Range Captain, Pat Handley. He not only helps from start to finish but he makes all the arrangements for amenities, and diligently oversees the course, literally from top to bottom, to ensure everything is maintained for our comfort, safety, and enjoyment. Thanks Pat!

Last, we would like to thank Bryan Keeling for all that he does for this event and our club. His contributions to TBoT and archery are never ending. Just a post script, Bryan and Debbie Keeling were recently inducted into the LSBA Hall of Fame. I know many of our members are also members of LSBA.

Hats off to our new officers for all their dedication and hard work. It shows, The Hill Country Shootout, without a doubt, a team effort that we should all be proud of. Looking forward to another great shootout at Growing Rocks Ranch, 2018.

"I'm 14 and I have been shooting bows as long as I can remember. I participated in my first "Hill Country Shoot" in 2012 when I was 9. I have been bowhunting with my family for a few years. Lately, I have been practicing more with my longbow and wood arrows and I am looking forward to hunting with my longbow someday soon."

Traditions Leathercraft

Featured Sponsor

My name is KC Kreger, I have been doing leatherwork for the past 28 years. My leather work career began in Oklahoma City in 1989. There I was hired and trained for 9 months with a Fort Worth based, nationwide, leathercraft supplier. While moving up the corporate ladder my wife and I moved to Denton Texas, El Paso Texas, where our oldest son was born, then on to Michigan, California, New Mexico, and finally back to Oklahoma where we are from. My wife Dawn and I have 8 children and own a dairy goat farm near Blanchard OK.

When my 23 year career unexpectedly came to an end I was faced with the reality of providing for my wife and eight children. For the first 2 years after my career ended I took a position as operation manager for a company that manufactured leather goods for the Renaissance festival market. While in this position I continued to make traditional archery gear selling it on weekends. Traditions Leathercraft began as a hobby business to make extra income so I could afford to attend traditional shoots across Oklahoma and North Texas.

Once I finally made the decision to go out on my own fulltime with Traditions Leathercraft, the business started taking off. The first big break for my company came when a small company in Canada, that had been buying a few items, introduced me to the buyers at 3Rivers Archery. After the introduction samples were ordered and shortly after orders started coming in for my Latigo Sidestalker quiver. My Latigo Sidestalker continues to be my #1 selling hunting quiver. It was only a few months later that more samples were ordered and other items were ordered and added to 3Rivers line of leather goods.

From our beginnings in my garage, we managed to continue to add more and more handcrafted leather items targeting the traditional archery market. This allowed me to opportunity to pursue my passion for leather work and traditional bow hunting. Finding ways to get my products in front of customers was one of the biggest learning curves as discovering where to travel took the better part of the first year.

In a typical year we will attend shows from the Hill Country Shootout in Vanderpool, TX. to Traditional Bowhunters Expo in Kalamazoo, MI. We travel as far west as the High Country Shoot that the Colorado Traditional Archery Society holds each June back to the NE and up to the ETAR shoot in Denton Hill, PA.

One thing that has always been vital to our success is regional and nationwide clubs such as TBOT, the Oklahoma Selfbow Society, CTAS, and the Compton Bowhunters. We do our best to donate products to each and every club that host shoots that we attend because without these organizations traditional archery would not be in the shape we are!

Partnering with various clubs TLC has started making and marketing Club Gear. At the time of this writing TLC manufactures Club Gear for TBOT, CTAS and the Oklahoma Selfbow Society. By including these organizations' logos it provides each organization with an avenue to get their name out and a way for members to show off their pride in belonging to these great groups. It is also a way TLC can give products to these groups to help them raise much needed funds. Many of these leather products are available on my company's website with plans to add more in the near future.

Have a great day! K.C. Kreger

Odell Wandering

by Bob Morrison

Somewhere in my wandering around and through a used book store in Central Texas, I perused a small booklet written by the Amish. The contents varied from home medical remedies, homecooking, to kitchen tips.

Many of these tidbits were worth remembering, but two stood out ... both kitchen jewels. The first (Kitchen Cutting Board Deep Sanitization), uses a half cup of white vinegar, three tablespoons of salt, and two tablespoons of vegetable oil. This is for wooden cutting boards:

1. Sprinkle salt over board and let set five minutes.
2. Scrub salt with a vinegar wash.
3. Rinse with hot water.
4. Dry with a dry cloth.
5. Occasionally, rub down board with vegetable oil.

The second tip goes along with the above tip. It is for cleansing countertops. Fill a spray bottle with a mixture of equal parts of white vinegar and water. Spray the tops of the counter with the mixture and wipe off the solution with a clean dry cloth. Or, let air dry.

The two tips are great when cutting and wrapping game. Remember: Dull knives are more dangerous than sharp ones.

Accidents afield are more common that most anglers and hunters realize. Here is a ditty that should be used for shock:

"Face red; elevate head."

"Face pale; elevate tail."

There are many causes for shock: Falls, sprains, cuts, broken bones, etc. Take care and always be award when afield.

With bow season not too far off. You might want to start mending equipment, checking portable treestands, repairing feeders, coon/squirrel proofing deer feeders.

While waiting for a photo, the clerk and I started talking about deer hunting. I mentioned having trouble with the varmints shinning up the legs of the feeders and emptying the feeders, even though we had tried all sorts of ways and gimmicks to stop the thieving critters, even attaching prickly pear cactus on the legs. Nothing seemed to work.

He said I should do what he does for his feeders to prevent this: simply heavily grease the legs with Crisco shortening. I looked at him skeptically. He read the belief on my face and said, "Sounds goofy, but it works. Try it next season."

Why not? Might work, and it might attract deer.

Odell Wanderings

By Bob Morrison

Approaching more than four score (80) and ten years, a person slows down, thinking of "yester years", with the help of a diary recording memories faithfully of each hunt ... whether successful or just another pleasant day afield.

Thus, Odell Wanderings popped into mind while high in a treestand, while waiting for dawn when an unsuspecting deer might wander into bow range. Oh my! How one's mind can wander and wonder.

During those mornings back in 1959, bowhunting on the Carson Pryor ranch, just north of Wheelock, Texas, I started my diary of every hunt. The first entree in the diary was a cotton rat shot at the Brazos Bowmen Field Archery Range on the Texas A&M college farm. Over the years many entrees have been recorded. Why the busy-body work? They say: "Your greatest memory is only as good as your faintest ink." True. I can thumb through the pages of the diaries (now in the 4th. volume) and recall nearly every hunt. And, relive each one.

So ... I want to share those memories with others that hunt with a "crooked stick and pointed sticks." These memories to share will be tips and "how to".

For the first Odell Wandering is an elixer found in every kitchen - and should be in every hunter's backpack: A small bottle of brown vinegar. This slightly acidic liquid has many uses. Here are some examples:

But, first a short story of brown vinegar, involving a dear friend retired from the Southern Pacific Railroad. Marvin Dean gulped down a teaspoon of brown vinegar every morning before his first cup of strong black coffee. He claimed the vinegar "kept the body fluids in balance." He claimed he has done this morning ritual since he was ten years old. Must have worked since he died in his late 80s ... "four score and ten".

In checking the literature, here is a list of uses:

1. Season food, especially fish.
2. Remove fishy odors hands, cutting board, skillet.
3. Removing grease from cooking utensils.
4. Salad dressing, especially plain or mixed with oil.
5. Soothing arthropod bites and stings.
